ARNOLD WEINFELD

ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR

INSTITUTE FOR PUBLIC POLICY AND SOCIAL RESEARCH
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Arnold serves as the Interim Director of the Institute for Public Policy and Social Research (IPPSR) at Michigan State University as well as Director of Urban Policy Initiatives for University Outreach and Engagement.

At IPPSR, Weinfeld assists with the coordination of programs such as the Michigan Political Leadership Program, Legislative Leadership Programming, State of the State Survey and issue forums.

In his capacity at Outreach and Engagement, he works with the Center for Community and Economic Development as well as with other MSU faculty, local officials and community stakeholders to develop university-community partnerships.

Prior to joining UOE, Weinfeld served as CEO of the Prima Civitas Foundation, a community and economic development non-profit organization. He also has worked for the Michigan Municipal League in a number of key leadership positions.

KATHLEEN STIFFLER

SENIOR HEALTH POLICY ADVISOR

INSTITUTE FOR HEALTH POLICY
COLLEGE OF HUMAN MEDICINE
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Kathleen Stiffler is the Senior Health Policy Advisor at the Institute for Health Policy and also serves as the Executive Director for the Michigan Health Policy Forum. She leads various health policy initiatives with strategic partners including the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, the Medical Services Administration and other health care and advocacy organizations. She's worked in healthcare for more than 35 years including positions as hospital health education, Health Education Director for a staff-model health maintenance organization, Health Education Specialist for the Michigan Health and Hospital Association and in many capacities in the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services. She is well known for her collaborative efforts with diverse stakeholders and served two stints as Michigan's Acting State Medicaid Director.

She specializes in Medicaid policy and operations, Medicaid managed care, Medicaid expansion, health issues impacting pregnant women, infants, children, adolescents, children and youth with special health care needs as well as strategies to promote healthy behaviors in the Medicaid population, increase use of primary and preventive services through medical homes, teen pregnancy prevention and integrated services. Stiffler served as Michigan's first Adolescent Health Coordinator (one of the first in the country) and implemented the state's first school based health centers, successfully led the transition of children and youth with special health care needs into Medicaid managed care and led the implementation of the very successful Healthy Michigan Plan (Michigan's Medicaid expansion program).

She holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Public Health Education and a Master of Arts degree in Hospital Health Education, both from Central Michigan University. She's received awards from the School-Community Health Alliance of Michigan, the Legacy of Leadership Award from the Michigan Primary Care Association and a Special Tribute from Gov. Gretchen Whitmer for exemplary service to the State of Michigan for more than 30 years.

Colleen Healy Boufides, J.D., is a deputy director with the Network for Public Health Law’s Mid-States Region Office. Her current work focuses on public health legal authority and decision-making; collaboration between medical-legal partnerships (MLP) and public health, particularly as it facilitates translating individual legal challenges into population-level legal interventions; laws supporting the community health worker profession; and legal issues relating to environmental health and climate change. She assists public health attorneys, practitioners, and advocates to use law to protect the public’s health by providing legal technical assistance, training, and practical tools.

Prior to joining the Network, she worked at the Michigan Primary Care Association where she focused on policy and operational issues affecting Michigan’s federally qualified health centers. Before that, she worked as a commercial litigation associate for a large Michigan-based law firm and supported local nonprofit organizations as a board member and by providing pro bono legal assistance.

In 2019, Boufides was included in the de Beaumont Foundation’s list of 40 under 40 in Public Health and she received the American Public Health Association Law Section’s Early Career Award for Excellence in Public Health Law. Boufides received her law degree from the Duke University School of Law and her bachelor of science degree from Arizona State University – the Barrett Honors College, where she studied psychology and global health. She is admitted to practice law in Michigan.

PETER D. JACOBSON, J.D., MPH

DIRECTOR

CENTER FOR LAW, ETHICS AND HEALTH

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Peter D. Jacobson, JD, MPH, is Professor Emeritus of Health Law and Policy, and Director, Center for Law, Ethics, and Health, at the University of Michigan School of Public Health, where he taught courses on health law, public health law, and public health policy. Currently, he is the principal investigator, Mid-States Region of the Network for Public Health Law.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, Jacobson has assisted health departments in addressing the pandemic's legal and policy challenges. Previous public health research includes: the implementation of health in all policies programs; assessing the legal aspects of the Flint Water Crisis; health departments' strategic adaptations; public health entrepreneurship; and the U.S. Surgeon General's vital mission. His books include Law and the Health System (co-authored), youth tobacco control (co-authored), and the role of the courts in shaping health policy.

From 2015-2018, Jacobson was Chair, Board of Health for the Washtenaw County (Michigan) Health Department. From 2010-2016, Jacobson was Associate Editor for Health Law and Public Health, Journal of Health Politics, Policy and Law. From 2010-2012, he served as President of the Public Health Law Association. In 2016, Jacobson received a lifetime achievement award from the APHA's Health Law Section, and in 2017, he received the Distinguished Health Law Professor Award from the American Society of Law, Medicine, and Ethics.

About MSU's Legislative Leadership Program and the Michigan Health Policy Issues Group

MSU's Legislative Leadership Program invites new members of Michigan's House of Representatives and Michigan Senate to engage in interactive sessions with content experts, including university faculty and practitioners, in the brief time between election and their first legislative sessions.

At its 1994 inception, LLP was designed to create a forum and the resources to help newly elected legislators meet the challenges of serving in a state with term limits. The program was meant to help legislators forge links to university policy resources.

Since that time, LLP has evolved into a broadened opportunity to gain insights into concepts that affect statewide constituencies, into evidence-based information on emerging issues and into the art and science of governing in divided times, such as under state House co-speakerships.

At the same time, IPPSR has evolved as a hub for policy expertise, information and outreach, a center for survey research training and excellence and an opportunity for training for those who seek leadership through elected office or public service. The program is built upon a series of specially designed events, including presenters, researchers and facilitated discussions. Sessions are focused on topics of compelling interest, from the state's revenue stream, to its expenditures, K-12 education, demographics and innovations.

IPPSR is proud that LLP has hosted a majority of newly elected legislators from each party and draws support from the Legislature's highest officers. The program continues to build on MSU's long-standing tradition of providing leadership training to state and county officials, community leaders, and aspiring public officials.

The LLP is consistent with the policy and research education efforts conducted both on and off campus in support of state legislators, their staffs and their communities. It resides at IPPSR as companion to IPPSR's Public Policy and Education, the Michigan Political Leadership Program, the State of the State Survey and Office for Survey Research. LLP draws on the resources and leadership of each of these outstanding programs.

Emerging Issues: Health Policy

During 2018, health policy was identified as an emerging issue within the framework of IPPSR's educational offerings through the Legislative Leadership Program.

Additional focus was brought to Michigan health policymaking with the support of the Michigan Health Endowment Fund and MSU's Institute for Health Policy.

The Institute for Public Policy and Social Research builds problem-solving relationships among policymakers and researchers and applies best practices to issues facing the State of Michigan. IPPSR's unique mission combines public education and training programs with research on issues of public policy, survey research services and the initiation of public needs among diverse audiences. Programs include a focus on policy education and political leadership training.

Located within the College of Human Medicine, the Michigan State University Institute for Health Policy serves a unique role facilitating and supporting collaborative relationships among CHM faculty and researchers throughout campus. These collaborative activities inform policymakers, state agencies and others with a goal of improving health care delivery in Michigan.

This educational outreach allows IPPSR to meet its long-established educational missions bridging policy and practical applications of personal leadership, governing and economic growth. They also are in step with IPPSR's other enriching programs – including Public Policy Forums, Michigan Political Leadership Program, the Rosenthal Internship Awards, Office for Survey Research, State of the State Survey and the newest addition, the Michigan Policy Insiders Panel.

For more information about LLP and all other IPPSR programs, please contact Arnold Weinfeld, Interim Director, Institute for Public Policy and Social Research, 509 E. Circle Dr., Room 321, East Lansing, MI 48824. He can be reached by phone at (517) 355-6672 or by email at weinfeld8@msu.edu

Acknowledgments

IPPSR is proud of the many events and activities it undertakes throughout the year. They require exacting attention to detail, a strong desire to meet personal needs and an ability to answer the call to service and commitment.

Please join us in thanking those whose work may be behind the scenes, yet is still essential to this program and other IPPSR operations: Administrative Assistant Iris Taylor Harper and Secretary Milly Shiraev, Information Technologist Jes Sprague, Communications Manager Cynthia Kyle and Student Communications Assistant Tatiana Maine-Brown.

This program is made possible with the considerable support of the Michigan Health Endowment Fund and its leaders and staff and in coordination with MSU's Senior Health Policy Advisor Kathleen Stiffler.

At the state Capitol, IPPSR is grateful for the assistance of Senate Majority Leader Mike Shirkey, Senate Democratic Leader Jim Ananich, House Speaker Jason Wentworth and House Democratic Leader Donna Lasinski.
